

ORAL SUCTIONING

Oral Suctioning

This Oral Suctioning training programme equips delegates with the skills, knowledge and understanding required to carry out oral suctioning on patients/service users. Delegates will also spend some time learning about the legal and professional implications of carrying out this practice.

Programme/Course Content

- What is Oral Suctioning?
- When is Oral Suctioning indicated?
- Contraindications to Oral Suctioning
- Adverse effects of suctioning
- Anatomy & Physiology of the upper airway
- Checks required before Oral Suctioning
- Application of Oral Suctioning
- Areas to monitor post Oral Suctioning
- Disposal of and Cleaning of used equipment
- Documentation
- Reporting and Dealing with Faulty equipment

Aimed at: This professional training programme is aimed at delegates who are responsible for carrying out Oral Suctioning as part of their daily responsibilities.

Accreditation: Attending healthcare professionals will receive an oral suctioning training course workbook to complete which aims to demonstrate competent and independent practice.

Further information: For more information, or to book the Oral Suctioning course, please get in touch with our team today.